Tasting Sheet and Tasting Mat

Four glasses, a sheet of paper and the atlas open beside you: the simplest way to remember what you taste, and where in the world it comes from.

HOW TO USE THEM

1. Print the mat (page 2) at actual size on plain Letter paper and lay it flat on the table.
2. Set one glass on each circle and pour each wine into the glass with its number. Write the wine and its place on the lines under the circle, so nobody mixes up the glasses.
3. Taste in order, from glass 1 to glass 4, left to right along each row: look at the wine, smell it, then taste it.
4. Fill in the sheet (page 3) as you go. A few plain words are enough: pear, lemon, toast, cherry.
5. Taste the map. Find each place in the atlas and tick the box "Find it on the map", then tick the region in the passport on pages 104 and 105.

THE ORDER OF THE GLASSES

From the simplest wine to the most complex, as on page 102 of the atlas.

SIX SMALL TIPS

Serve at the right temperature. Sparkling wines and light whites at about 45°F (7°C), fuller whites at about 50°F (10°C), reds a little cool, at about 60 to 65°F (16 to 18°C).

Use the same glass shape for all four wines, so that only the wine changes from glass to glass.

Pour small. About 2 ounces (60 ml) is enough to look, smell and taste, and leaves room to swirl.

Go from simplest to most complex: light before full, dry before sweet. The last glass then never hides the first.

Water and plain bread between wines rinse the palate. Skip strong cheese and spicy snacks until the notes are written.

Write first, talk later. Note your own impression before you hear the others. There are no wrong answers.

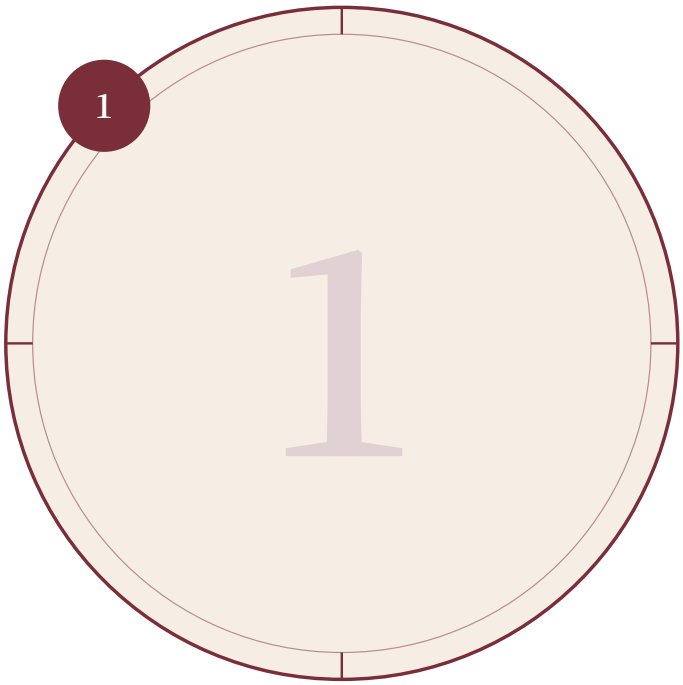

WHAT IS INSIDE

p. 2 Tasting mat: four circles for four glasses
p. 3 Tasting sheet for four wines
p. 4 Tasting note for one wine, with more room
p. 5 The four-glass sparkling tasting, ready to fill

The sparkling tasting. The four glasses from Prosecco to Champagne are on page 102 of the atlas. Page 5 here already has their names; you only write the notes.
